To Be Offered

The Garrett County ACE Project has announced a Farmedic course to be held at Garrett Community College in evening of July 26th and continuing through July 27th and July 28th. The course will be taught by instructors from Safety and Health Extension Department, West Virginia University, and will follow the National Farmedic In The Classroom

Curriculum. A special request is going to the agriculture community for old farm equipment to be used for the July Farmedic course. Equipment such as corn pickers, manure spreaders, etc. will be used for extrication exercises. It should be noted that donated equipment can be counted as a tax commodity organizations, deduction. "Our ultimate goal is to have teachers who are on sabbatical manning the units at all times," Connelly said. Each unit will stay at one location for one to two weeks. "The grain unit will deal with all the current traditional agriculture crops and will have an emphasis on nutrition," Keenan said. Review of the New Farm Bill

The College of Agriculture, University of Maryland, has produced a video with a panel of experts explaining the advantages and disadvantages farmers will have with the new farm bill. Yesterday I took the time to view the video (one hour). To my surprise, the program did a very good job of explaining how the farm bill will affect Maryland farmers. The video is for loan by contacting my office.

I have come to the conclusion that most farmers would objective of the GREAN foundations, the private financially benefit by enrolling in the program. As you have probably read, the deficiency payments will be phased out over the next five years. The government has already established the sum of money that will be devoted to each eligible commodity. Farmers that have reported crop yields since 1991 can receive payment based on yields with no strings attached. For additional information you

When you see the fireflies lighting up the countryside, it is just about time for the corn rootworm to hatch. For the last couple of years the rootworm has not been a serious problem in our area; however, you should still scout your cornfields, particularly fields that have been in continuous corn, for the presence of the rootworm. If you have corn that is not growing as expected, take a look at the roots of a few plants. The small maggots are fairly easy to see. If you have a rootworm problem, call me for Farmers, Don't Miss Transition Program Sign-up Farmers, your one and only opportunity to sign up for the new market transition commodity program began May 20 and runs through July 12.

Producers who do not enroll in the Market Transition Program before the end of the sign-up period will be excluded from the program for the next seven years. The only exception to this will be for producers who wish to enroll land coming out of the Conservation Reserve Program during the seven-year life of the transition

The 1996 Farm Bill changed the commodity programs that farmers have worked with for the past 60 years. It replaces most of them with the seven-year market transition program that pays producers a fixed-but declining payment based on land that was enrolled in previous USDA commodity programs.

During the transition, farmers are free to plant what they want with limited restrictions on fruits and vegetables. In addition, producers are not restricted to farming their non-contract acreage, although they still must comply with conservation and wetland restrictions.

Farmers are eligible for the market transition program they participated in the wheat, corn, grain, sorghum, barley, oats, upland cotton, or rice program at least once in the last five years. Those who reported acreage to the Farm Service Agency as part of the past commodity programs but did not participate can enroll those lands in the program as well. Payments are limited to $40,000 per person per year throughout the life of the new seven year program; the three entity rule applies.

The Market Transition Program resulted from the 1996 Farm Bill debate and replaced the old commodity programs farmers have worked with for decades. This new program will increase the flexibility farmers have to plant for current and future markets. In addition, however, farmers will face increased responsibility for their own planting decisions.

Crop insurance, which was required for participation in government programs, is optional under the new law Producers are not required to obtain crop insurance to be eligible to participate in USDA programs. However, if a farmer declines to obtain crop insurance, he or she will be required to agree, in writing, to waive any eligibility for future emergency crop disaster assistance. The 1996 Farm Bill brings dramatic changes to produc tion agriculture. Not since the Great Depression of the 1930's have farmers faced as much change in their relationship with the federal government or as many options in how they can run their operations. Farmers also now will face the risks inherent in farming; weather, crop price changes, and other variables without the strong safety net that has been a part of agriculture for past

The current church sanctuary was constructed in 1896-97 by Archibald Shuttlesworth for $1,200, a cost which apparently included all labor and all materials. As with numerous projects that would follow, church members contributed their time and skills to the effort.

The 50 by 36 foot sanctuary was built in front of an older church which had been in use since 1877. An even earlier Aurora Methodist Church had stood on the opposite side of the road, and was once used as a Union encampment during the Civil War. According to Martin's research, Methodists were present in Preston County, W.Va., as early as 1798.

Upon completion, the existing church was heated by a large stove and lighted by kerosene lamps mounted on the walls. The structure was wooden with an intricately designed metal ceiling, and seating was provided for around 200 persons. A tall steeple, which was later removed, topped the structure. When the steeple was replaced in 1982, the cost was $875, almost as much as the price tag for the whole church 86 years

Rev. John L.B. Jones was the first pastor of the new

As the church approached its 15th birthday, Rev. E.G. Hutchinson was assigned to leave his church in Chattanooga, Tenn., and take up the flock at Aurora. In a letter to Hutchinson dated 1910, W.D. Reed, superintendent of the Oakland District of the Methodist Church, described Aurora as "a clean little town of 300 or 400 people -- large membership on the charge -- pays $800 and house and always pays it. Gives liberally to the benevolences. Hope to see you

In her book, Martin cites an elder church member who remembers that the church also provided Rev. Hutchinson, who served as pastor from 1910-11 and from 1917-19, with horse, a cow, and meat for his famiy. Parishioners provided hay for the animals.

Electricity was provided to the church in 1925 when a parishioner who lived near the church installed a generator in his basement and strung a wire across U.S. Route 50 to the sanc-

A basement was excavated under the church in 1933 with the help of the Work Projects Administration (WPA). Many men of the church also worked on the project, so that no labor had to be purchased.

"Please note that all work besides the WPA was donated. Not even a carpenter was hired. We did it all ourselves. The Aurora Methodist Church was a live church then," wrote church historian J. Roy Lipscomb of the basement project.

In those early years, revival meetings would last as long as six weeks, one senior parishioner told

Martin. "He relates that there were 'a lot' of conversions," Martin stated. "However, the next year, it was the school and church. Long-time church members also remembered a regular parishioner who served as the church's janitor. One member recalled that if any children were mischievous during church services, the janitor would "get under the pews and go up to where they were and straighten them up."

The decade of the 1960s saw the construction of a new parsonage for the five-church Aurora Charge, as well as the construction of a social hall behind the Aurora church. During the construction of the social hall, a meeting was held to decide a name for the new structure and "Memorial Building" was unanimously chosen.

"The building was being built in memory of our ancestors, members of the church and community," explained Martin. "To them, it was and is a memorial."

The Memorial Building was completed in time for Thanksgiving Day, 1969. A Thanksgiving dinner was the first event held in the new hall, and church historians still possess a com-

100 YEARS OF COMMUNITY SPIRIT - Members of the Aurora United Methodist Church will celebrate the 100th birthday of their sanctuary throughout this year. As recounted in a 50-page history of the church, recently compiled by church member Virginia Martin, it has been through the active involvement of the church community that the Aurora church has survived, and thrived, for a century. Pictured above is the church as it appears today. The original white board siding of the church is now hidden under stone veneer. At left is Archibald Shuttlesworth, who built the sanctuary in 1896 for $1,200, a cost which included materials and labor. but at my own past, I see many fond memories of the Aurora United Methodist Church," remarked church member Kirk Lantz, who assisted with the production of the book. I didn't understand at the time, that fellowship was one of the greatest gifts we have to offer each oth-

Church members will celebrate this legacy at a series of events this year, including a historical drama in August. Earlier this month, the church was rededicated in a ceremony which brought together numerous members of the church and community.

W.Va.'s Oldest Water Impoundment Gets Some Help From Local Citizens

by Nathan Raybeck

West Virginia's oldest water impoundment is in over its head, but it is getting a lot of help from the citizens of TerrA Alta and surrounding communities.

"The Terra Alta dam was damaged during the heavy rains of this January," said Arvin Harsh, Aurora. Only a couple feet of water went over the dam's breastwork, but because of constant rainfall the dam is in need of repair, he added. After large amounts of flooding in the southern part of the state, the legislature passed the Dam Act, and to comply with this Act, Harsh stated that the dam needs another spillway through the dam alone and draining the breastwork, as well as other repairs, which, when all totaled, will cost about Harsh then talked about the dam's history and why it is not only essential to the people of Terra Alta but also to the people of the surrounding area. The dam was built in 1852 and was used to provide water pow-er to a grist mill on Terra Alta Lake. The local residents then decided to form a company to use the dam as a recreational and training facility, he explained. In 1937 the church of the Brethren bought the dam from the Terra Alta Bank and turned it into a Christian training center for youth. The training center then became known as Camp Galilee, which is still in operation today.

Harsh said that the dam not only has a significant history as the oldest water impoundment in the state, but it also plays and important role to the people of Terra Alta as a possible alternative water source. He went on to say that the 30acre lake owned by Camp Galilee is a tremendous asset to the people of this

"When all the recreational activities, the historical value, and the water source option of the lake are taken into consideration, it can be seen just how much money fixing the dam saves," said

Getting the money to fund this rebuilding process has now become a joint effort between Harsh and Emergency Services Director Gregory Kane. Kane believes the money can be obtained through a process called hazard mitigation. Kane said that to gain funds from this process, it has to be proven to the state that repairing the dam would cost less money than leaving the lake, which according to Kane is "not an option.

"We have to show to the state that for every one dollar we spend on the dam we can save one dollar on the other side. When you see that losing the dam means losing four homes, one business, an immense amount of timber, and possibly a state road bus garage, not to mention the loss of irreplaceable wetland, this is obviously a virtuous project," said Kane.

Both Kane and Harsh agree that they will have the money to complete phase one of the project, which is the fulfillment of the government regulations as outlined by the Dam Act, by the end of the summer. Harsh went on to state that he would like to have a cement cover over the entire breastwork. That project would cost an additional $300,000 and Harsh has been very hard at work trying to get federal money to fund this project. Harsh said that he appreciated all the work U.S. Senators Robert Byrd and Jay Rockefeller, as well as Congressman Alan Mollohan, have being doing to help fund ty offices. She is dedicated

"I have not talked to single person who was against rebuilding the dam," said Harsh. "People have Museum Funds been very supportive and I complish this goal." Harsh added that not felt across the state line in Garrett County, especially directly affected the floodthey would see that repairing the Terra Alta dam and would aid drastically in reducing the flooding of

"So you can see, that this project's importance is not restricted to the people of "Terra Alta," said Harsh.

Alta residents Bud and Betty White are working to establish this area as a historic site, Kane added.

wishes to send their sincere thanks to all the relatives, friends and neighbors who expressed their love to us with words of comfort at the loss of our loved one, during the funeral home viewing, the visits to our home and at the funeral. Thanks also to everyone who provided, prepared and served food for our house and for the meal at the church, as well as all who sent the lovely flowers and the heartwarming cards.

A special thank you to those who have made memorial donations to many different organizations and for the men of the VFW and American Legion who braved the miserable weather to accord graveside military rites.

Our gratitude also extends to Rev. David Snodgrass and Rev. Alvin Kyle and all others who took part in the funeral service. To the staff of Stewart's Funeral Home whose professionalism shows in their kind and caring ways of guiding grieving families re through a difficult process.

Final B & L Bloodmobile Nets 41 Units

A total of 50 Bausch & Lomb employees came out to donate blood at the final Bloodmobile held at the B & L. plant in Oakland. From these potential donors, a total of 41 productive units of blood were collected.

"It was wonderful to see all of our donors at the bloodmobile," stated Elizabeth Huxford, blood services chairperson of the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross, of the recent event. "Especially remarkable was the number of donors that joined us for the first time. It was great to see the 'old timers' out there recruiting for us."

Two employees donated for the eighth time, thus reaching the gallon mark. They were Beth Frazee, Friendsville, and Lori Paugh, Elk Garden.

Lois Einloff has coordinated the B & L bloodmobile visits for several years.

RED HOUSE PREPARES DISPLAY FOR SPRING FEST - At the recent 14th annual Spring Festival of Children's Literature, held at Frostburg State University, a special display created by students and educators at Red House Elementary School was featured. Principal Linda Buckel, art resource teacher Ronnie DiGioia, long-term substitute Susan Ward, and the fifth grade students of the school put together the display which focused on Gloria Houston's book titled My Great Aunt Arizona. The display depicted the book's setting of a one-room schoolhouse with various clothing items, furniture, school supplies, and slate drawings by the students. Houston is a native of Spruce Pine, N.C., and her picture books and novels often reflect her Appalachian heritage. Her collection includes Littlejim, The Year of the Perfect Christmas Tree, and But No Candy, Please. The spring festival offers an opportunity for librarians, educators, parents, students, and other literature advocates to Interact with authors, illustrators, and storytellers. The event was organized by Dr. William Bingman and Dr. Barbara Ornstein of FSU. Pictured above in front of Red House's display are, left to right, Ronnie DiGioia, Ms. Houston, and Susan Ward.

Attention Investors & Contractors (I bit off more than I can chew!)

I built a house in the southern end of Garrett County on 11.5 private, wooded acres and have lived here 1 year. It has 3,600 sq. ft. of living space, a full basement, 6 BR, 5 BR, attic studio, the list goes on & on. You would really have to see it to appreciate it. Some finish work needs to be done so I'm willing to sell this house for far less than it's actually worth just to pay my debts and move on. Call for more information.

OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, JUNE 27, 1996

THE POWERFUL FORCES OF NATURE were made known all over the county Monday as lightning, wind, and rain besieged the mountaintop. The lightning played havoc, striking a metal building at the Deep Creek Quarry and injuring a man inside, literally exploding a tree on the grounds of the Mountain Lake Park Tabernacle (pictured at right), and igniting a shed in Kitzmiller that burned to the ground. A tree in Grantsville (pictured above) was destroyed, most likely by high winds, and nearly went through the windows of the old Grantsville school. When the Mtn. Lake Park tree was hit, the bark was sheared off and sent flying hundreds of feet. Landscape workers from Appalachian Crossroads were on the property, and were fortunately on the other side of the building at the time of the strike. Workers reported that the ground shook and the noise was intense. The tree now stands with still living leaves atop but a nearly sanded trunk, completely without bark. We humans should mind the power of nature and opt not to defy it. In other words, take cover!

According to a report on file at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, Uphold had gone into the building for lunch and was standing with his back against a metal door. A violent thunderstorm was in progress. Uphold heard a loud crack and watched as a power box located on the wall about 15 feet away began to spark. At that moment, he felt an intense pain in his back and staggered forward. He reportedly had some trouble breathing. Co-workers came to his aid and telephoned for help.

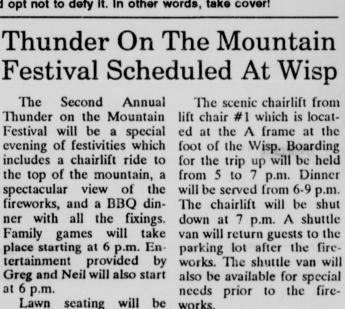

Responding to the scene, in addition to sheriff's deputies, were both the Northern and Southern Garrett Rescue Squads and the Deep Creek Lake Volunteer Fire Department. Northern Rescue transported Uphold to Garrett Memorial, where he was admitted for the night.

Grantsville Man Seriously Hurt When Car Flips

A Grantsville man was seriously injured early Tuesday morning when his car overturned on Interstate 68 after it apparently struck a highway sign that was lying on the roadway.

Scott Dewain Smith, 24, was transported to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland where he was placed in the intensive care unit. He remains listed in "serious" condition in that facility, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Maryland State Police at Barrack W, McHenry, said Smith was traveling west on I-68, near the Lower New Germany Road, when the 1996 Chevrolet pickup truck he was operating struck a construction warning sign owned by the State Highway Administration (SHA) that was lying in the road. However, as unexpected costs, including clean-up of last winter's snow and floods, caused the county to spend $29,367,755 during FY '96, the new budget is up less than $300,00 over last year's total disbursements.

The county's operating budget for FY' 97 has been set at $28.4 million, an increase of 3.5 percent over last year which is primarily attributable to increases for county public schools and Garrett Community College and the establishment of two special accounts formed to help reduce the county's debt -- estimated at around $4 million -- and to prevent future debt spending.

The two accounts include $850,000 for reduction of the debt and a reserve fund of $250,000 to help cover unplanned needs. When this $1,100,000 is removed, the operating budget is actually 0.5 percent, or $136,247, lower than last year's.

The county's capital budget is $1.19 million, a figure which reflects an increase of $418,472, or 5.44 percent, when compared to FY '96. The major designations of these expenditures are the public schools, GCC, the county Continued on Page A-14

Friendsville Park Is New Home For Tank

The retired M-60 tank which rumbled into Friendsville several days ago is now in its final resting place, the town's community park. The tank was acquired through the efforts of Col. Dale W. Schroyer, chief of staff of the 29th Division, U.S. Army.

No One Injured In Power Plant Pipe Rupture

No one was injured when a large steam pipe ruptured at Virginia Power's Mt. Storm, W.Va., power station Tuesday afternoon. The accident did not disrupt electrical service to

The seamed pipe, installed in the early 1960's, had been monitored regularly, stated Doug Ketterman, regional station manager. It had been thought that a failure of the pipe would start with a leak, he said.

Tuesday's blast caused an eight to 10 foot rupture in the pipe.

Located near the top of a boiler, the pipe was 20 inches in diameter with 3.25 inch walls and carried 1,000 degree steam under high pressure. Ketterman stated that similar pipe at the plant will continue to be inspected, and in the long term, the plant will replace its seamed pipes.

Pipes at the plant are tested with ultrasonic equipment he said, adding that if he is not fully confident with a piece of pipe, it will be replaced.

"We're not taking any shortcuts just to get back up," he said.

All employees were accountted for within 15 minutes after the blast, which also damaged a 1/8 inch metal roof over the pipe, he said.

Oakland Police Investigate B&E, Theft At China Wok

The Oakland City Police are conducting an investigation into a reported breaking, entering, and theft that occurred last week at the China Wok restaurant on Third Street.

According to a report filed by Officer Chris Feller, sometime between 10:30 p.m. on June 21, and 9:45 a.m. on June 22, someone entered the restaurant by prying open the basement door and removing nearly $3,000 in cash, property, and food.

An initial report indicated that Mr. Yuan, owner of the China Wok, noticed $1,000 in U.S. currency had been removed from the cash register and a drawer used to hold extra change. He also stated that a telephone, valued at $30, cooking wine and salts, also valued at $30, and a quantity of ginseng, worth $10, were missing. Later, after Yuan had a chance to check his inventory, he also noticed 300 pounds of shrimp, valued at $1,500, and 50 pounds of scallops, valued at $300, were also missing. A steel door, worth $100, was also damaged in the break-in. The total cost of items reported stolen and damaged are $2,970.

Yuan told police that the perpetrator had to have been familiar with the establishment because of the drawer for the extra change. There apparently is a suspect in the incident, and the Oakland police are continuing their investigation.

The Bandaid Approach...

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners is taking considerable heat for raising the tax rate so dramatically (25 cents per $100 of assessed property value), as we knew they would. Frankly, after looking at the numbers, we thought the hike would be more like 40 cents. The commissioners are being accused of fiscal mismanagement; a charge that, in general, we believe to be unfair.

The county tax rate has remained unchanged for at least six years, and even though property assessments have increased during that time and have provided more tax income to the county, the amount of money has simply not kept up with expenses. This problem - and the county's indebtedness - has been growing steadily for a number of years. It did not just sneak up on us in the past year.

Yes, we know there has been some mismanagement and waste, as has been brought to light in recent months with the Fousek controversy. However, the cost of labor and materials has climbed much faster than the amount of tax money collected. What has happened this year is precisely what we predicted would happen, and why we have, for the past several years in this column, urged the commissioners to increase the tax rate by a few cents each year. They did not heed this advice. They held firm to the same rate, and simply put off the inevitable.

The bandaid approach is fine in the short run, but if you keep on bandaiding instead of biting the bullet and spending the money to fix the problem properly, you ultimately end up with a major collapse and huge expense all at once.

Garrett County is an enormous county, with 700 miles of roads and over a dozen schools, but has a relatively tiny population that must support all of this. Certainly we should demand frugality and wise management from those in charge of spending our tax dollars, and ever be on guard for mismanagement; but we should also realize that the price of living in a rural, quiet, sparsely populated, pristine area, in terms of property taxes, will always be high-

To the Editor:

After attending the Garrett Co. Operating and Capital budget meeting of 6-18-96, I am very concerned. The Commissioners failed to explain why they voted to increase the property tax rate from $2.24 per assessed hundred to $2.49.

The taxpayers of this county, due to local pay scale, are compelled to stay within limits of our salaries, especially those on fixed incomes.

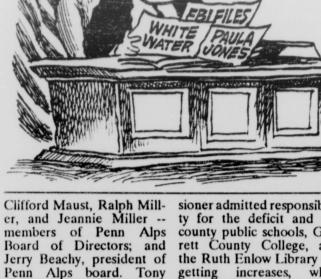

However, in recent years we have money trees growing in our back yards that we can use upon their decision to raise taxes to pay for projects we cannot afford.

It is high time these special interest groups realize that they can not go on asking the commissioners to spend money the county does not have on special interest projects as they have in the past. Property owners have to sacrifice to pay our taxes. And they will have to sacrifice some of their special programs.

Respectfully, A concerned taxpayer Mary Leighton

To the Editor: I wanted to take this opportunity to thank some wonderful people who recently gave of their time and talents to clean up our Village. These volunteers, after most of them had put in a hard day at work, came out one evening last week and swept, raked, pulled weeds, stacked firewood, and cleaned up debris from the flood in January of this year. Maxine Broadwater and Jean Swauger, both members of the Spruce Forest Artisan Village board of directors, prepared refreshments for the wiener and marshmallow roast following the work detail. The clean-up was part of a campus-wide effort to ready the Village for the upcoming Summerfest/Quilt Show on July 11-13, 10:00 a.m.-

If you see any of these

Jerry Beachy, president of Penn Alps board. Tony Morgan, Andy Morgan, and Walter Swauger also helped with the clean-up.

The Village is open Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and features eight working artisans in historic log cabins, schoolhouses and plank buildings. Artisans demonstrating and working on site include a potter, quilter, basket weaver, watercolor artist and calligrapher, weaver, bird carver, stained glass artist, and blacksmith. Admission to the Village is free, but donations are welcomed throughout the Village in alms boxes for restoration projects.

Looking At Windows -- Part 2

Last week, I introduced some of the history of the Windows graphical user interface (GUI). Now, I will take you into the functions and features of Windows. It will take us a few weeks to cover even the most basic ones. Please don't expect a complete course in using Windows (GCC offers a very good one). As we continue looking at Windows, let me make one important distinction: Windows with a capital W always refers to the product's name. When I talk about a window or windows with a small w, I am referring to the area(s) of your computer screen where a program is running or where some component of Windows is active.

One important thing to remember about windows is the commissioners must feel that they come in all sizes. A single window can be as big as your entire screen, as tiny as a little picture (icon) that merely shows that the program is still running, or almost any size in between. You can control the size of each window, and how many windows are visible at a given time, using some of the tools that come with Windows.

Most likely, Windows starts automatically when you turn your computer on. If not, you'll have to start it yourself by typing the command win at the C:\> prompt in DOS. (Think of the prompt as the spot on the screen where the computer is waiting for you to type something.)

Windows is meant to work like a person's desktop. By the time I have been at work for a couple of hours, my desk is covered with the things I am working on. I joke that I use the "layers" method of filing: I can find anything by remembering how deep in the pile it lies!

Once Windows comes up, you usually see the "master" window, called the Program Manager. As I said above, each different screen that you open is called a window, and that's where Windows gets its name.

From the Program Manager window, you can run just about any program that is installed on your computer. You can even run most non-Windows DOS programs by selecting File, then Run, and typing the name and location of that program. I have noticed, however, that some older DOS programs do not run under Windows. Furthermore, some multi-media games do not run efficiently under

In addition to the Program Manager, Windows offers several other standard features. These features are clustered together in what are called program groups. The program groups are seen as the icons on the Program Manager window. You will see a program group icon (they all look the same) for each component that comes with Windows. You will also see one for each program or application that you have installed on your computer (word processing and spreadsheets, for example). Remember that a program group doesn't do anything. It is just a bunch of related programs. To see what is inside each program group, double-click on the icon. A normal mouse click means using your index finger to press quickly on the mouse button -- usually the left one. A double-click means to press twice in quick succession. Unless I specifically say to use the right-hand mouse button, I'm talking about the left one. Next time, we'll take a look at the major program groups on your Program Manager window. Until then, happy computing!

Take Me Out To The Ballgame

The hollyhocks are blooming outside my window, owing completely to my wife's efforts. It is hard to figure out when she has had time to plant and nurture such a beautiful flower garden. A schoolteacher, she only finished her year a week or two ago. Once home, four evenings out of five each week, she has taken either our son or younger daughter to ballgames. I have helped some with that, but a pastor has many evening meetings. More often than not she was running the family taxi alone.

The ball season is now nearly over, with only a few play-off or all-star games still to be played. Despite my schedule I have managed to attend parts of a number of games, on my way to or from a meeting, and even a few games in their entireties.

Having athletic children has given me a new perspective on sports, youth, and life in general. For me sports had been something that cluttered up the news and conversation. It was something I had to wait until it was over before we could get onto whatever it was that interested me. As for ability, I can't throw a ball worth a hoot, and never really could, though my son graciously informs me, draft money order or registered letter addressed to The Republican, P.O. when I practice with him, that I am improving. How could

I did once enjoy watching ice hockey in the days before it became boxing on ice. The one sport, year in and year out, that has teased my interest is ball -- whether baseball or softball. At a time when professional baseball has been trivialized by everybody involved with it, the rest of the ballplaying world has become more interesting. The difference being that non-professional ball is organized, played, and observed for the love of the game and for the fellowship which arises from the game.

There have been wonderful scenes to treasure from this spring's season. Imagine a team of girls who, despite their being more or less the same age, come in all shapes and sizes, girls who at the school desk range from the outstanding to the indifferent. They are unequal in so many ways, including their ball-playing skills. On the ballfield, however, their inequalities dissipate, partly because their individualities yield to the commonality of the team.

At their best they are not many, but one. That oneness not only takes place in the textbook play when the shortstop scoops up a hard-hit ground ball, and tosses it to the secondbaseman who in turn makes the throw to the waiting glove at first. Those are beautiful moments indeed, but no less beautiful are those when the girls talk up their pitcher who is having trouble finding the strike zone or encouraging one of the less skilled girls as she

The boys arrive at a similar oneness by a very dissimilar route. They are much more intense during the game, and show their stress and distress more visibly than do the girls. But when the game is over, one surely glimpses the fellowship of heaven in seeing a handful of boys head across the emerald-green field, tossing their gloves into the air, running into each other, and generally acting, well,

On the bleachers there develops another camaraderie, analogous to that of the team and dependent upon it, but blood boiling! The one I am the meeting was the people different, too. We root on each other's children, and speaking about (there are expressed an interest in become friends all the while. I have gotten to know people whom I would never have known otherwise. More surprising are the new ways I have gotten to know people whom I have known all my life.

An Oakland teenager was injured Wednesday evening when the all-terrain vehicle she was operating on an old logging road near Gnegy Church Road struck a ditch and overturned.

State police said Katheryn D. Cline, 19, was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by her sister following the 8:45 p.m. mishap. She was reportedly treated and released from that facility.

No charges were filed in the accident, and the driverless four-wheeler apparently received only minor damage after it continued on and struck a tree.

FAMILY OF FIVE INJURED Five members of a

Smithfield, Pa., family were injured in a two-vehicle accident late Saturday morning on Rt. 219, near McHenry. State police said Candace

Lowry, her husband, and three children received minor injuries when a 1987 Chevrolet S-10 pickup, operated by Michael D. Sweitzer, McHenry, pulled into the path of her south-bound 1977 Dodge van.

All of the members of the Lowry family were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the 11:34 a.m. mishap, where they were reportedly treated and released.

American Trust Golf Tourney To Benefit Library

For the fifth consecutive year, proceeds from the annual American Trust Bank Charity Golf Tournament will benefit the children's book fund of the Ruth Enlow Library.

This 8th annual tournament has been slated for Friday, July 19, at the Oakland Golf Club.

Since American Trust held its first golf tournament in 1989, the event has raised over $100,000 for local charities, including more than $70,000 for the children's book fund, which is administered by the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library group.

Gary Yoder, a member of the tournament organizing committee, stated that the book fund was again chosen because it benefits the whole community and because books can be used repeatedly. Each year, the organizing committee selects a local charity to receive the proceeds of the golf event.

Yoder also commented that over the years, the Friends organization has been "extremely helpful" in . assisting with the tourna-

Pain/Fever Drugs Can Cause Kidney Damage

The National Kidney Foundation recently developed a summary of findings and recommendations regarding pain-reliever medicines and the kidneys. The potential problem is called "classic analgesic nephropathy" which means kidney damage. Typically damage is caused by the habitual consumption of mixtures of pain/ fever medicine mixtures. Such mixtures may include asprin, acetaminophen, nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs, and codeine.

Various combinations of these drugs can cause progressive kidney failure. Blood vessels leading to the kidneys shrink and the kidneys begin to function less efficiently. Acetaminophen as a single drug does not appear to cause analgesic nephropathy. Also, aspirin is not a problem if taken alone, even when taken daily as a heart disease preventative. In some countries, over-the-counter combinations of pain/fever medicines have been removed from sale. The National Kidney Foundation recommends:

1. Avoid asprin if kidney damage is present. If the kidneys are working properly, do not take asprin or a nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory pain reliever within 48 hours of each other.

2. In persons with kidney disease, acetaminophen is preferred over aspirin, but the drug should not be taken chronically or habitually.

The present secretary and treasurer of the SGAA, Donna Durst and Darlene Andrews, respectively, have agreed to serve another year.

"Another problem that will be created if SGAA disbands is that each team may have to do its own fund-raising, meaning that local businesses and residents will be called upon for donations repeatedly throughout the school year," Mrs. Durst said. To the Editor: We, the taxpayers and voters of Garrett County, have remained silent for too long. It's time to let the confidential deals, closed meetings, and unrestricted spending of our tax dollars. Had it not been for a few good men, and concerned citizens like John Hinebaugh, Bob Watson, Charles Tressler and others, who were willing to risk ridicule, the secret deals, possible illegal practices, and all the other sordid details would still be col-CARPET CLEANING lecting dust in some un-

we will no longer permit

We now start blaming ourselves, because we have voted for most of these officials at one time or another. I am disappointed, and truly amazed, at the flippant attitude of Commissioner Wilt, who was quoted as saying "the $107 thousand dollars in legal fees for settlement of the law suit, wasn't even a blimp on the face of the earth." How generous you are with our money, Commissioner! It seems strange letters by Mr. Watson, just to me how a friendly and before the next local eleclikable man from humble tion. Thank you for permitpower, become so defensive and self-serving. It seems the $76,714 paid to Mr.

Fousek for unused leave, under the confidential agreement between him and the commissioners, would be even less of a "blimp."

Commissioner, there are many Garrett County residents, including my 94-yearold mother, who have lived for 25 years on less than the above mentioned $180 thousand dollars. County voters have been so uninformed and county govern-ment so mis-managed, that we now find ourselves $4-$4.5 million dollars in debt. The same tax and spend mania that has put our federal deficit at $3 trillion plus dollars is showing up in state and county budgets. The State of Maryland has $270 million dollars for football stadiums, but not enough for schools and bridges. They have millions more for state-ofthe-art golf courses for the rich and famous, but talk of laying off state employees for budget reasons. Our illustrious house speaker, Cas Taylor, now says they may be able to give state taxpayers a 10 percent tax cut, if they raise the sales tax. This is the kind of fuzzy thinking that fools some of the people some of the time, but will not fool all the people, Mr. Speaker.
The taxpayers of Garrett

County are now told that a tax increase must be imposed, due to the $4 million dollar debt. Not the ordinary, and sometimes expect-5¢ on the hundred dollar assessment, but a whopping 25¢ increase! To Commissioner Roger Glotfelty's credit, he once again showed some of the home grown, common sense" that he spoke of during his campaign for election, by contending that the bulk of revenue from the tax increase be used for debt reduction only. His lone dissent will not be enough to assure this happening.

To appoint a committee to oversee spending would only add another layer of bureaucracy and confusion. In conclusion, Mr. Editor, I hope that you will do a great public service and reasonable to assume that Commissioner Wilt chooses to call it "mouthing off," as he has in the past, so be it.

Thank You

We wish to thank the many friends who helped us during Harry's brief illness and our bereavement. The thoughtful words of encouragement and acts of kindness expressed to him and to us provided support during a very difficult time. We especially want to thank the six "merry maids," Flying Scot, Inc. and the seven boat thieves. By anticipating our needs before we did ourselves, you turned what would have been a sad homecoming into a much more bearable experience.

We appreciate the thoughtfulness of our neighbors, especially the Browns, who helped us in so many ways. We also want to thank Pastor Mike Robinson and the family of St. Mark's Lutheran Church for their support with special thanks to Marcette, Marge and Sue whose music contributed so beautifully to Harry's memorial service.

We also want to express our gratitude to our sailing friends at Deep Creek for their loyal and unselfish support. Thank you for helping us to celebrate Harry's unique life in a way that he would have enjoyed.

And finally, we want to thank Wendell Beitzel and the employees of the Garrett County Sanitary District for their extraordinary patience and understanding.

The Family of Harry Filemyr Marilyn, Bessie, Amy, Lois, Doug, Tim and Steve observe the law.

He also cited two legal definitions, included in state registration and election laws, which apply to groups campaigning for or against a ballot initiative.

According to Maryland law, a "ballot issue committee" is "a political committee that is formed to promote the success or defeat of any proposition submitted to a vote at any election." A "partisan organization" is "any combination or two or more persons formed for the purpose of assisting the promotion of the success or defeat of any candidate, political party principal, or proposition to be submitted to a vote at any election."

For more information on the requirements of state registration and election laws, persons may call the election board at 334-1962.

New Budget

"This budget has been very laborious to compile and the unexpected and unbudgeted disasters of the past winter made the financial condition of the county even more demanding," the commissioners said in a prepared statement. "We must become financially solvent and in a position to prepare for future catastrophes.

"The county must continue to sufficiently promote economic development, afford for the best possible education for our children, and maintain the highest quality public service mandatory from all departments in a timely, efficient, and courteous manner," the commissioners continued. "This delivery of services will be provided through the proficient competence of our employees and in partnership with our citi-

"To totally achieve this goal, this government must be operated in an open and accessible atmosphere, be based on comprehensive and strategic long-term and short-term planning, and have an appropriate managerial organization of fiscal responsibility," the commissioners said.

Last week, the commissioners announced to a hushed room of office holders and citizens that the county's property tax rate, which had been held at $2.24 per each $100 of assessable property for several years, would be increased to $2.49.

The largest portion of the new county operating budget, some $13,198,965 or 46.37 percent, will go to local public schools and GCC. County road and sanitary agencies will get the next biggest hunk, with $7,848,060 or 27.57 percent of the operating budget.

For capital expenditures, the Ruth Enlow Library will receive $140,00, an increase of $61,000 over last year's library capital budget. A large portion of these funds will go toward the planned expansion the library's busy Accident branch.

The roads department will receive $350,000 for equipment. Last year, the department was budgeted no funds for equipment, but ended up purchasing $7,000 worth of machinery. The department had requested $848,000 for equipment for FY '97.

Also in the capital budget, the Garrett County Board of Education was allotted $175,000, a boost of $135,000 over last year's capital budget allotment, for work on the roofs at Southern Middle School and Broad Ford Elementa-

The county will take in some $13.2 million in real estate taxes this year -some $1.8 million over last year's $11.4 million budgeted property tax receipts. However, the county's assessable base increased only $4 million over last year, remarked Commissioner John Braskey in releasing the budget figures. During the year before, the county enjoyed a $16 million increase in its assessable base, Braskey hopes to eliminate the county debt in three years.

In the county's new operating budget, the Sheriff's department was allotted $559,000, down $6,200 from last year.

This year, the roads department will receive operating funds totalling almost $1.5 million less than last year's budget allotment of $8.96 million.

Largely because of last winter's destructive weather, the roads department overspent its operating budget by almost $1 million last year, for a total of $9.9 million in expenditures. The department was budgeted $7.46 million in operating funds for FY '97; thus, the department suffered a virtual operating budget reduction of around $2.5 million this year.

The roads department had requested $10.5 million in operating funds for this

The school board requested $12.2 million and was budgeted $11.86 million in operating funds for this year. Although the public schools did not receive the full request, the $11.86 million figure does represent a jump of almost half a million dollars over last year's operating budget.

REFILL TIP - When it's time to refill my salt and pepper shakers, I put a strip of transparent tape over the openings on top.

I can just turn over the shakers, pour in the desired ingredients, plug up the hole, turn it upright and easily remove the tape. It works like a charm! Cecilia T., Moline, Ill.

CHECK IT OUT - I use the boxes my checks come in to compartmentalize two big drawers in my vanity. They're plenty sturdy and a great size! Jill F., Marlton, N.J.

UNTANGLE SNAGS. — I often get snags on my sweaters when I'm at work or out somewhere and I don't have a needle handy. I use either a fishhook-type earring or a paper clip by pushing it up through the sweater from underneath and using it like a needle to pull the snag through to the other side. Helen W., Genoa City, Wis.

SCOOP IT - My friend was surprised to see me pour one cup of water into my full-size coffeemaker and put one scoop of coffee in the basket and come out with a cup of perfect coffee.

She thought you had to buy a special coffeemaker that made only one cup. If she didn't know it, maybe other people think they have to make a full pot of coffee also. Franny G., Harrisonburg, Va.

VINEGAR MAGIC - Sometimes my coated frying pans develop a sticky residue from cooking oils.

I simply put the frying pan on the stove top over high heat, fill it to the brim with water and about 1/2 cup of vinegar, then bring it to a boil. All the sticky residue floats to the top and I skim it off with a paper towel. You may want to let the water cool down before discarding, and wash the pan with soap and water.

Then I do what the manufacturer calls re-seasoning the pan by giving it a light coat of cooking oil. After that my frying pan is as good as new again. Liz H., Newville, Pa.

Our ancestors had a problem when trying to serve food that was meant to be cold. The refrigerator is a 20thcentury idea. The ice box that was used in the 19th century was a luxury limited to areas where natural ice was available. But the wealthy managed to cool wine or fruit at banquets even in earlier times. Cold water from mountain streams or ice that had been cut from lakes and stored in the winter was used to cool food on the table.

In the 1790s, sets of dishes included "fruit coolers" or "ice pails." The cooler was made of three pieces: a deep bowl, a liner and a cover. It was displayed on the table during a meal.

By 1840, the ice cooler was out of fashion. It no longer was a required part of a complete set of dessert dishes.

Q. Thirty years ago, my grandfather gave me an aluminum flip-top case that holds 10 aluminum "cards." The case says "Souvenir of St. Louis." The cards show scenes relating to naked women, little boys urinating and males looking under women's skirts. What are these?

A. Your grandfather must have visited the World's Fair in St. Louis in 1904. The 10 "Bawdy Cards" in their aluminum cases were sold as souvenirs. They're worth from $100 to $200.

O. I would like to know something about my black satin candlesticks with "twisted" shafts. They have no identifying marks on them. I know they are quite old.

A. The United States Glass Co. made such candlesticks in 1926. The company had factories in Pittsburgh; Glassport, Pa.; and Tiffin, Ohio.

If we need to get a job done, we must go to the right place. If we need assistance, we have to call the right person. If we seek information, we have got to refer to the right source.

Mechanics provide us with car care. We go to the hardware store for the right nut, bolt or tool. We are benefited by the skills and knowledge of landscapers, bricklayers, contractors, carpenters and plumbers. We turn to the newspaper for direction, dial 911 for help and obtain proper step by step instructions from manuals.

You see, getting something accomplished often requires the expertise of a specialist to get the task

So, what do we do when we need inspirational help, spiritual guidance, an answer to personal problems? Who can we turn to?

Try your minister, pastor, priest or rabbi. Look 'em up. They're the best in the business. Been at it for some time.

They are at your service. Make it a point to be at theirs.

THE AWFUL NEARNESS June 30, 1996

Background Scripture: James 4:1-10, 13-17 Devotional Reading: I Corinthians 3:10-15

According to William B. Silverman, the Hasidic rabbis taught: "Everyone must have two pockets, so that he can reach into the one or the other according to his need. In his right pocket are the words, 'For my sake the world was created,' and in the other, 'I am earth and ashes."

This ancient saying captures the creative tension in which we must hold both our pride and our humility. We must never forget either our divine creation or our human failing. Humility tempers our pride and pride elevates our humility.

It is a mistake, I believe, to equate humility with worthlessness. I like the way William L. Sullivan puts it in Epigrams and Criticisms in Miniature: "Genuine humility does not arise from our pitiable kinship with the dust that is unworthy of us but from the realization of our awful nearness unworthy." One cannot be nothing and humble. Humility is possible only when we realize how wonderfully we are created and how fearfully we fail to live up to it.

OUR HUMBLEST HOUR James M. Barrie, said: "The life of every man is a dairy in which he means to write one story and writes another; and his humblest hour is when he compares the volume as it is with what it was meant to be." No life, no matter how successful in worldly terms is ever totally satisfying when we compare it with the life God has willed for us. But, we see that only through humility. As Henry Thoreau puts it, "Humility like darkness reveals the heavenly light." Many people never see that heavenly light because they are too dazzled by their own limited luminosities

Some people I've known are truly humble; many more have been humbled by life's storms; but I don't know anyone who has sought to be humble. In the popular perception, there's something seemingly unattractive about humility. It's so...humbling!! We all seek recognition in one form or another, but I can't recall ever seeking humility. informed me many years ago, "God don't make no junk!"

"God opposes the proud, but gives grace to the humble" (4:6). Arrogant pride is an invitation to God to humble us. God doesn't put down the humble, only the proud. And Grace is love that we don't proud person cannot experience. Only the humble person can know in which we were created.

Perhaps the problem is that we don't really understand the nature of humility. As I indicated above, some people equate humility with being worthless. It is not. To assume that God has created you worthless is an affront to your Creator. As one of my parishioners HUMILITY'S ADVANTAGES James tells us of advantages in humility that may not occur to us. deserve so it is something that the and enjoy the grace of God.

"Humble yourselves before the Lord and he will exalt you" (4:10).

Only those who approach God in true humility will be exalted by him. The true reward of life is not the recognition which the world to a magnificence of which we are gives us, but the exaltation that only God can give. Human pride is set upon a shaky foundation. Winston Churchill was once asked by a pushy lady if it didn't thrill him to realize that people flocked to hear him speak. His answer: "It is quite flattering... but whenever I feel this way I always remember that if instead of making a political speech I was being hanged, the crowd would be twice as big." Boasting, says James, is arrogance and arrogance is a terrible affront to God. "All such boasting is evil," he writes (4;17). Humility, on the other hand, puts everything - ourselves included- in perspective, helping us to perceive and respond to that "awful nearness" of the "magnificence" of the image

Some stars work, others play on July 4 holiday

By Margie Barron ©TVData Features Syndicate

The Fourth of July is just another day for some popular TV personalities to report to work. For others, it's time to shelve the showbiz frenzy for fireworks of the holiday kind.

"There's nothing better than being in my hometown, Cleveland, on the Fourth of July," says Drew Carey (The Drew Carey Show), "watching the fireworks on the shores of Lake Erie. But this year I'll be on the road with my nightclub act, playing Las Vegas on the Independence Day weekend."

Stand-up and sitcom stars Dennis Miller and Ellen De-Generes also are performing in Las Vegas during the July 4 breaks in their respective series' production schedules.

Jerry O'Connell (Sliders) says he'll spend the day "working on the set of the new Tom Cruise movie Jerry Maguire in New York City. I'm sure the Big Apple will be rocking."

"I'll either be partying my butt off, staying out all night going nuts," predicts Andy Dick (Newsradio), who reports he has no definite plans. "Or I'll go to the other extreme and go to a health spa in the desert, or go on a fast and only drink fruit juices and exercise. That's what I'm like; I'll either play real hard or cleanse myself." Richard Karn (Home Improvement) will be in his hometown of Seattle for the annual Wayne Dalton/Richard Karn Celebrity Golf Classic, which benefits cancer research. "Seattle is such a great place and I love to golf, so I can't think of a more enjoyable way to spend Independence Day," Karn says.

Tia and Tamera Mowry (Sister, Sister) also will pitch in for charity over the holiday break. "We're going to Alaska on a celebrity cruise for seven days," Tia says. "It will benefit the Starlight Foundation and give us a chance to meet some of our fans up close and share pendence Day.

A traditional picnic and family barbecue in Purvis, Miss... are on the day's menu for Lacey Chabert (Party of Five). "It's always a feast of home cooking, with my favorites fried chicken and hush puppies," she says.

Christine Lahti (Chicago Hope) plans to spend the holiday with her family and go inline skating with her children. Newlywed Holly Robinson

According to Mikal Mc-Cartney, M.Ed., program specialist at Garrett Memorial and grant writer for the project, the Touchworks program promotes healing and recovery by broadening the scope of care available to patients.

'Although further studies research has shown that combining traditional medicine with complementary therapies such as massage can help patients recover faster, feel more 'cared for' and stay healthier for a longer period of time," said McCartney.

Funded by the American Massage Therapy Association Foundation, the Touchworks program, coordinated by Marianna Herpel, RN, of the hospital's nursing department, incorporates massage therapy into the patient's overall treatment care plan with a physician referral. Patient Ula Sims has been receiving bodywork from therapist Janney bi-weekly since February through the Touchworks program. Sims has found some relief from the pain and discomfort associated with diabetes and arthritis.

"The massages I have been getting feel very good. They help the pain I have from arthritis and have helped improve the circulation in my legs," said Sims.

Janney noted that massage therapists are required to observe rules of confidentiality at all times and that the patient's comfort level -- both emotionally and physically -- is always

"Current trends in healthcare are broadening the traditional medical model to include a more holistic approach to medicine, treating the mind and body as one," said Debora Nichols, CHES, Wellness coordinator at Garrett Memorial and a massage student at Garrett Community College. "Massage can bring into balance the physical, emotional, spiritual and mental aspects of a person, promoting healing and a sense of well-being."

All three prints were photographed in Preston County. "Almost Home," a print of Terra Alta resident Jeff Roy, shown above, received three blue ribbons before being accepted into the General Collection. Jones's other two prints on display will be "River Lord," featuring Kingwood resident Troy Helmick on the Cheat River, and "Misty Morning," a scenic print taken on Rt. 7, near Terra Alta. Son Of Terra Alta Couple Excels In U.S. Naval Academy

By Eric Sean Biggs, Sr. The U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, one of the world's most prestigious military institutions, is the foundation upon which many of our nation's future leaders are molded and developed. Jacob Harriman, son of Charles and Janet Harriman, of Terra Alta, W.Va., is one of few chosen to pursue the academy as a means of preparing himself for the challenges of his future.

"I selected the Naval Academy because I feel that it is the finest military institution in our country," the said. "It offers the highan officer. Not only does CEOs, one Nobel Prize man. the academy build me up winner, and a President of physically and academically, the United States. but also it helps build char-

Established more than Harriman, 21, knows that 150 years ago, the mission upholding the institution's intellectually and physically to become the future leadinstill in them the highest ways," said Harriman. "First, ideals of honor, courage, my relationship with God and commitment.

Many graduates have obstacle I have to. Second, gone on to become leaders being a starter on the acadof our nation, including 72 emy's rugby team provides Medal of Honor winners, an avenue to vent all my frustration and anger. Finally, my time spent with my close friends here really helps me deal with the pressure."

Harriman accepted the challenges at the historic institution in 1994, after completing a year at West Virginia State University in Morgantown, W.Va.

Midshipmen must be nominated by a member of Congress, the Secretary of the Navy, the vice president or the president to receive an appointment to the Naval Academy. Of the 12,000 men and women who apply for nominations each year, only 1,400 of the best qualified candidates are offered appointments.

"I entered the academy through an appointment est level of concentrated 36 astronauts, 32 Rhodes from Senator Robert C. training needed to become scholars, many corporate Byrd of W.Va.," said Harri-

A systems engineering major preparing for his junior year at the academy, Harriman is unsure what career field he plans to pursue.

"I haven't exactly decided which field I want to pursue, but I've narrowed it down to Navy Seals, aviation or the Marine Corps. Being a Seal is on the top of my list."

Harriman said he's looking forward to his future and is grateful for his experiences at the academy. "I've gone sailing up and down the east coast, trained To Committee with Marines in Quantico, Va., rockclimbed in Great Falls, Va., and represented the Naval Academy by playing collegiate rugby. The best thing about the Navy is that if offers so many opportunities."

TAKE GOOD CARE OF YOUR BACK!!

On the surface, one bedding set looks pretty much like another. But if you really care about your back you should find out exactly what's on the inside. Or, risk buying an inferior mattress.

Not all firm beds provide proper spinal alignment.

The KINGSDOWN Advantage: A Kingsdown, Sleeping Beauty gives the proper support for correct and healthful spinal alignment.

It's a proven fact. You get a better night's sleep when your spine is well-supported. That support comes from the coils in your mattress and boxspring: most national brands have an average 600 coils ... compared with 1664 coils in ours!

No wonder the others provide less support and sag more quickly than ours.

The Sleeping Beauty System guarantees a better night's sleep, with less tossing & turning. Our unique construction conforms to your body shape and concentrations of weight in any sleeping position. That means better support and fewer back

You just can't buy a better-made mattress anywhere. Come in and talk to us - learn the facts.

LIBRARY NEWS

The hours at the Friendsville Library will be cut back at least 5½ hours starting in September. Citizens are asked to go to the library and vote on which of the following hours they would prefer: weekdays, 2-5 p.m. or 3-6 p.m., with Saturday hours remaining the same, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The library's circulation continues to decline which, according to a spokesperson, could cause its closing. Patrons are asked to use the "commercial establishment devoted to the lending of books.'

Any suggestions on how the library could improve or on reptiles and wild birds, better serve the public may instructed by Mark Beals of be sent to: Emily Ferren, Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County, 6 North Street, Oakland, MD 21550. Voting for the new hours ends on July 13.

MARYLAND FORESTS

Across the state people are putting trees to work. These working trees are trees planted in a certain place, in the right design, for a specific purpose. Tree plantings benefit us in many Increasing numbers of farmers are devoting land to growing trees. Forest "crops" require less maintenance and are less perishable than agricultural crops. Since forest crops can be sold when the markets are favorable, farmers can expect a good rate of return on their investment.

Many valuable products are obtained from forest crops. Forest products include sawlogs, veneer wood, firewood, woodchips, fruits, nuts, and Christmas

In traditional agricultural settings, rows of trees can minimize wind and water erosion of fields. With improved growing conditions, crop yields are increased.

Trees create windbreaks which protect farm animals from the cold and wind. Livestock protected by trees show improved weight gains as much as 10 percent and require up to 50 percent less feed. Milk production increases more than 10 percent when cows are protected from extreme wind. Survival rates of newborn lambs born in the shelter of trees has been shown to be improved over lambing in open fields.

Senate Bill 73 - Inheritance Tax - Family Farms The Governor just recently signed the Md. Senate Bill 73 into law for the purpose of allowing the person responsible for paying the inheritance tax of a family farm to elect an exemption from the tax for certain real property used for farm or agricultural purposes that passes from one decedent to certain persons. Presently, the Maryland State inheritance tax is 1% of the value. Of course, with most bills there are certain details that will be encountered. My advice is to consult your lawyer or accountant if you are in the situation of possibly paying state inheritance tax. I have a copy of the bill that I would be glad to would cost far more than the cost of testing. send you on request.

Alfalfa Pays Dividends When Rotating to Corn

Recently I have been in some corn fields that are following a well-maintained alfalfa stand. Typically, these stands of alfalfa were on high fertility soils and harvested on a four-cut system' consequently, the weed population was small. Likewise, the weed population was equally small in the corn field. In fact, most of these fields did not require the use of any herbicides. The weeds that were present were not likely to cause any economic damage to the crop. Secondly, the good stand of alfalfa put a lot of available nitrogen into the soil for the corn crop. More often than not, these fields do not need any additional commercial nitrogen to obtain an excellent yield. Less herbicides and more free nitrogen puts more dollars in your pocket.

Be Aware of Mycotoxins in Hay

It has been very difficult to get the hay dried down to the desired moisture level. Baling and storing hay with a higher than recommended moisture level can result in moldy feed. Just this past year there have been more cases of mycotoxin poisoning to farm animals than I have ever seen. If you know your hay has been stored too wet, my advice is to have your feed supplier to check for mycotoxins before you feed the hay. In most cases you will have to pay for the testing, but the loss of one animal by Pamela B. Townsend Those thunderstorms so common during the summer months can do more than spoil a Fourth of July picnic. Heavy winds, excessive rain and lightning can wreak havoc with utility lines, causing power failures that leave consumers without electricity for hours or even days.

It's Important To Keep Food Safe When You're "Powerless"

Although you may be powerless to prevent such incidents, you can take actions to ensure the safety of your food supply when the lights go out, according to Dr. Mark A. Kantor, a nutrition and food safety specialist with the Maryland Cooperative Extension Ser-

"First of all, purchase thermometers for the freezer and refrigerator so you can keep track of the temperature in case the power fails," he says. "The thermometers should be sturdy and designed specifically for this use. Many hardware stores and supermarkets carry them."

If you're lucky enough to have a full freezer, Kantor says, you can expect food to remain frozen for two days. A half-full freezer will keep food frozen for about one day, although you may be able to extend this time by grouping packages together so they retain the cold more effectively.

You also can help keep food frozen longer by adding dry ice to your freezer when the power goes off. Twenty-five pounds of dry ice should hold a full 10-cubic-foot freezer below freezing for three to four days. If the freezer is half full, the same amount of dry ice will keep it stable for two to three days.

"If possible, find out where you can get dry ice before you need it," advises Kantor. "Utility companies sometimes distribute dry ice free of charge during extended power outages. Listen to radio announcements (on a batterypowered radio) regarding distribution points. You can also check the yellow pages in the phone book for dry ice suppliers."

If you do purchase dry ice, make sure you handle it

Never touch it with your bare hands," Kantor stresses. "It can freeze your skin quite badly. Instead, transport it in a cardboard box that you can place directly in the freezer, or wear heavy gloves and use tongs when handling it. Keep the dry ice away from food items or place a piece of cardboard between the ice and food so items don't stick to it."

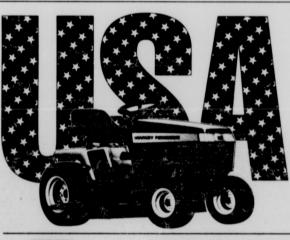

When dry ice vaporizes, it drives out the surrounding oxygen, so don't stick your head into the freezer and breathe the vapors.

After a power failure, food will usually keep for four to six hours in a refrigerator, depending on how warm your kitchen is. If

Maryland's Lead Paint Poisoning Prevention Program

Ninety-five percent of the housing units built in Maryland before 1950 contain lead paint. Swallowing or breathing lead can poison children. Lead poisoning can slow a child's development and cause learning disabilities and behavior problems. While case findings are lower in the outlying counties, far fewer children are tested as compared to Baltimore City. The hazards associated with lead paint are the same regardless of the location of the property.

Maryland's Lead Paint Poisoning Prevention Program is designed to reduce the incidence of childhood lead poisoning, while maintaining the supply of affordable rental housing. The Maryland Department of the Environment has proposed regulations concerning risk reduction treatments, lead paint abatement services, liability relief for property owners and compensation for tenants.

Frequently asked questions about this program:

Question: Will all homes be regulated?

Answer:

No. Only pre-1950 rental dwellings and rental dwellings built between 1950-1978 where property owners elect to participate in the program will be regulated. Owner occupied dwellings are not regulated.

Question: Is the removal of all lead paint in a rental unit required?

No. The property owner has the option of meeting the risk reduction standards by either passing the test for lead-contaminated dust or performing lead risk reduction treatments.

Answer:

Answer:

Can any work be done in an affected rental unit without being subject to the work Question:

Yes. Exemptions are provided for a disturbance of 3 square feet or less of painted surface in each room.

UNE M.V.P.

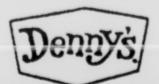

Larah Friend

Larah is a most valuable person because of the many great things she has achieved in her life so far. She is the captain of the 1996-97 Northern High School Varsity Cheerleading Squad and was selected as an All-American Cheerleader last year... this is a tremendous honor. Just this week, she was named Outstanding Cheerleader at cheerleading camp again for the third year in a row. This means she will be going to Kennywood on August 9 to defend her All-American title. Larah has also been selected to go to Hawaii in January where she will be competing for scholarships and performing in the Pro Bowl. Larah practices every day without fail. She is even pursuing a cheerleading scholarship to help with college tuition. But perhaps the best thing about Larah is that she always has time to help younger girls. Whether it's helping them learn a jump or keeping them on track with school work, Larah is always there. She has high values and standards, and always exhibits a positive attitude. Larah's parents, Debbie and Steve Friend, as well as the rest of her family, have every right to be proud! Larah exemplifies the qualities of a Most Valuable Person.

> As an M.V.P. Larah will be awarded * An official Denny's/KHJ M.V.P. Plaque * A $100 U.S. Savings Bond

Note of Thanks From the Commander

I would like to take this time to thank a lot of people for their help at the Post Home. We have made a lot of changes in a short time and without the help of the Sr. Vice Commander, Jr. Vice Commander, and the trustees, the work would be impossible to get done. But most of the thanks belongs to the social members. I feel that the social members we have in the club are a great bunch of people. They help out every chance they get. Not just one social member but all of them. Not too many VFW's take the time to let the social members know that we care, and thank them for everything. But as the commander of the post, social members, I salute and thank you all. Also a special thanks to Danny DeWitt for the long hours and dedication of the remodeling of the inside of the club. My hat goes off to you, Danny, thank you. A special thanks to Todd Deal, Larry Lantz and Denver Gank. Thanks also to my wife Donna Lantz and to Kammie Lantz, the best bartenders in town. Thanks to my wife for being there for me. You're my backbone and strength.

This budget has been very laborious to compile and the unexpected and unbugeted disasters of the past winter made the financial condition of the County even more demanding. We must become final solvent and in a position to prepare for future catastrophes. The County must continue to sufficiently promote economic development, afford for the best possible education for our children, and maintain the highest quality public service nandatory from all departments in a timely, efficient and courteous manner. This delivery of services will be provided through the proficient competence of our employees and in partnership with our citizens. To totally achieve this goal, the government must be operated in an open and accessible atmosphere, be based on comprehensive and strategic long-term and short-term planning, and have an appropriate managerial organization of fiscal responsibility.

NOTICE

PROPERTY TAXPAYERS TO GET NEW BILL

Certain real estate property taxpayers in Garrett and Alleghany counties and their municipalities will have the option of paying their 1996-97 property taxes in two installments. The option is available for properties that are owner occupied principal residences and must have all prior taxes paid. Owners will be mailed a new tax bill containing an annual payment coupon and two semi-annual coupons with payment amounts for those individuals that qualify for the program. The taxpayer would use either the annual coupon or the two semi-annual coupons for payment depending on the payment method selected.

Senate Bill No. 93 of the Annotated Code of Maryland

mandated counties and municipal corporations provide a semiannual payment option to owners of owner occupied principal residences. The bill also permitted those entities to assess a service charge and administrative fee to defray in part the cost of offering the program. The combined fee and service charge will amount to an approximate annual rate of seven and a half The various taxing jurisdictions have installed new software and procedures to comply with the state law. Taxpayers are asked to be patient when making inquiries and paying taxes as the collection agencies become familiar with the new systems. Questions concerning the program should be referred to the tax office and telephone number on the tax bill.

Attention Investors & Contractors (I bit off more than I could chew!)

I built a house in southern Garrett County on 11.5 private, wooded acres and have lived here 1 year. It has 3,600 sq. ft. of living space, a full basement, 6 BR, 5 BA, attic studio, the list goes on & on. You would really have to see it to appreciate it. Some finish work needs to be done so I'm willing to sell this house for far less than it's actually worth just to pay my debts and move on. Call for more information.
